1) The circulation of "THE NEWS" is double that of any paper in the State out of the city of Providence. At the office of publication every facility is had for the execution of all kinds of Book & Job Printing with next ness and despatch.

In order to allow those in our em ploy to participate in the festivities of today no paper will be issued from this office

The Tract Society.

Notwithstanding the shoutings of the Journal of Commerce, the Boston Courier, and plenty of other doughfaced and dirtcating organs in the Pree States, and the unanimous exultation of the Slave presses of the South, over the late decision of the American Tract Society,-if that Society does not prove to have made a great and fundamental mistake in the matter, and if it shall not be made hereafter to see and confess that mistake, we will cheerfully waire any claims we may either have, or may be supposed to have, to extra Yankee forceast and regacity.

For what was the point plainly at issue, of the late universary, and what was the decision made by the Society? The public have a right to a clear and honest understanding of the subject. Lies are in circulation, not a few, touching the matter; sophintry, the paltriest and shallowest, is widely coupleyed, both by tongue and pen, to belog, pervert and falsify the truth in the premises; and individuals who read but little, and who think still less, are easily imposed upon. Every body was not present et the Tract anniversary, and a good many folks who take an interest in the late decision have not been rightly informed about

The point at issue was not whether the Tract Society should transform itself into an Abelition Society, and go to preaching incendiarism and insurrection in the South. The persons who alledge that this was the point are consciously guilty of falsehood and of bearing false witness. The pretence that anybody either desired or expected the Society to do any such thing, is equally groundless -equally base. The last year's vote of the Society (which the scarcely went beyond a recommendation to publish the advice of Southern clergymen as to the Christian duties of hoth Slaves and their masters. And pray who was going to be burt by such advice? Did not St. Paul give such advice? The last year's resolution expressly disowned and repudiated all political views in the matter-as the gentry who so diligently and persistently misrepresent it, very well know.

Not one word, either, did that last year's vote either assert or imply; as to the great bought and sold like a brute or a wagon It simply affirmed that slaves and masters proposed to advise each class as to the discharge of those duties. The Society has now stultified itself by rescinding that last year's resolution. That is all. This stultification will have to be rescinded, in its turn, ere long. Our word for it may be marked and remembered.

The Providence Tribune of Saturday makes the following remarks in regard to "The Domestic Tragedy" of which we spoke in yesterdays News :--

THAT "DOMESTIC TRAGEDY." - Unfounded Statement Refuted .- We have been requested to say that the statements in one of the morning papers relative to the untimely death of Mrs. Reed, wife of Nath aniel Reed, living on She'don street, are entirely with-out foundation. Coroner R. W. Potter, seeing in the paper referred to that 'a man living on Sheldon street, in a fit of demoni-cal intoxication, beat his wife in a most shocking manner;" and that "the unfortunate death ended her sufferings;" went and saw Or. Armington, who, in consequence of the heating, it was said had "declared that she could not live." The whole is sweepingly untrue. The Doctor informed Mr. Potter untrue. Into Doctor informed Mr. Potter that the woman died from the combined effects of typhoid fever, liver complaint and eysipelas, and that the marks upon her were the natural effects of the same diseases. Her tongue was as dry and as black as a piece of shoe leather from the same cause. She was sensible when he saw her and made no complaint of abuse. It is certain that her husband is a degraded fellow, but to impli-cate him indirectly in the murder of his own wife, to circulate the implication to the world in a daily paper, all this is rather too much for human nature to hear. Our Re-porter saw Dr. Armington, who substanti-ates the above facts in relation to the wo mm's death, and also expressed surprise at reading the article after he saw the Coro.

Hoors on Broadway Sixty YEARS AGO,--From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin we extract the following reference to Mrs. Robert Morris, and dress fashions sixty years since :-

An old contleman, whose memory is very clear, informs us that, in 1798, the la dits each wore a single hoop, which was as large as the lower one now worn. large as the lower one now worn. The hosp was worn as high as the hips, and below it depended a train, often five or six yards long, that awept the sidewalk, or was carried by wniting maids or boys. The old gentleman recollects seeing Mrs. Rubert Morris walk along B-oadway, N. V., in company with Aaron Burr, while her train was beginned by vix French matter worsten worsten. was borne by six French mustee women richly dressed, and with turbans on their heads. The women all wore stays, and shoes with heels two or three inches high, immense silver buckles being on the shoes Silk dresses were not then common, and muslin ones worn were admired according to the size of the flowers on them, roses as large as one's hat being consulered most elegant and tastoful. At that time enormous egant and lastical. At that time enormous brackfresses were worn, towering lar above the head of the wearer. The headge in for the street was a sort of a cap, which was placed upon the top of the head-dress with a contain or cape, at the sides and back, which hong down nearly to the shoulders. The ladge of the present time differ from those sixty reast such to contain the sixty reast such that the sixty reast such that the sixty reast such to contain the sixty reast such to contain the sixty reast such that the sixty reast such those sixty years ago, in several respects.— The waists of their dresses are not as near the arm-pits as of old, and instead of wear ing the capes upon their shoulders, they wear their boants there; but erinoline is spreading fast, skirts are growing longer, and heels are gradually working their way up to the last century piech.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Washington, Saturday, May 22d. The opinion that we spoke of the other day, as being entertained by some, here, that the real object of Great Britain in her West Indian crusade, was the aggravation of hostilities with Spain, and the ultimate seizure of Cuba, scenns to be strengthened by the news per the Black Warrior, that a party of Marines had gone upon the land and ransacked plantations in search for recently imported negroes. Those entertaining this opinion suggest that the outrages mon American vessels are merely incidental to the main object, and designed to give credit to the main pretext. One thing is certain—if John Bull gets into a fight with Spain, the United States, and France, all at the same time, he will be very upt to come out at the little end of the horn. Now that the Moranon Robellion is over, the question of Mormon Polygamy comes up for discussion and settlement. Already has a proposition been introduced into Congress for probibition and posishment of polygamy in the Territories. The doctrine of the Administration on this subject, as intimated in the President's Annual Message, and as feeely expressed in private conversation, is simply, that the General Covern ment has nothing to do with the religious and sentimental affairs, and " private contracts" of the people of a Territory, as long as they respect the laws of the United States, applicable to the Territories, and live as they would have a right to live if organized into a sovereign State. Any law interfering with the validity of " voluntary private contracts," not inversating with the legal or natural rights of others, and especially of a personal and sentimental character, involving the most sacred human affections, would be regarded as unconstitution. al. And this seems to be the general sentiment of Congress on the subject. At the same time polygamy is regarded as a mon. strous social evil, and a system to which, under circumstances of social freedom and option of monogamy, the female portion of the human race would not consent. The policy of the Administration, therefore, will he to remove all external restraints from the victims of the system, restore them to a political and personal equality with the citizens of the States, and leave it for the True Church, whichever that is, to work the necessary reform in their religious affiles. To this end, instructions are to be issued to Gen. Harney to offer protection and a free conveyance to the States, or to the State of California, to all women who may desire to leave the Territory. And it is to be suggested that the State of California offers the best field for women to better their condi-

Measures are about to be initiated for the purchase and annexation of Sonora.— Its inhabitants, a considerable proportion of whom are Americans, have already manifested a desire for nunexation, and the acquisition of the province seems requisite for the complete integrity of our Western Territory. THE FASILIONS.

(From our own correspondent.) NEW YORK, May 22d, 1658.

Please, dear Editor, accept of a few more of the airy trifles, which seem to be floating in my funcy, and asking to be turned to some account, my last letter closed with a he do with it? Part XII. Antiquities of abscription of mantles. I would now add that Dusters, or travelling cloaks, are no less fashionable than they were last year.--And that, as they can be purchased for from five to ten dollars, in every variety of matenal and fashion, they will of course take the place of all mantles, except those of the richest, and most approved styles, and particularly for country wear, and watering places. The Duster, being the indispensable article, the rich mantle reserved for ceremonious visits. The regular Haglants at mesent considered the most stylish affair And the best material for it, is a kind of water-proof cloth of a plain color. A collar is substituted for the popular hood-although the hooded circular is still much ween, and many more of them are purchased at this time, than of the Raglan.

There is also a very pretty duster, similar to the mantle, but with a hood, the upper part cut to fit the shoulder, and running down to a rounded point behind-with a kind of bias piles set on to it, resembling the mantle frill, but not full. The hood, and the seam, are ornamented with a trimming of acorn buttons, which with the tassals, give it a more dressy appearance, and if a good material is selected, a handsome garment is obtained suitable for all, or any occasion.

For misses and little girls, I saw a variety of these pretty garmen's made of marscilles. The embroidered Raglan was exquisite. The circular also, with hoods, and with small collars, and with every kind of braid, and gimp embroidery and fringe for triuming. One dress booked very pretty, though it was not new. It was a complete dress, fook and mantle of green and white siik, a small plaid, the martle cut so no to admit of a frill of the same silk about three sixteenths in width. The latest style for ladies morning dresses was made with a slip front, and 1 cape, falling a little below the waist behind, and out approaching to a point. It was a little full in front, and drawn in to the waist, which had stringe of the same material. It had plain flowing sleeves. I have endravored to describe. those last imported. They were made of a plain material, that is, all of one colorpink, blue and buff, and handsomely embroidered in white. The beautiful salesroom, where I was shown many rich and elegant articles is the third, on the left, as you enter Genin's great bazaar -there may he found a coterie of graceful and obliging young ladies, who spare themselves no trouble, and never arge goods upon a customer. The purchaser of all these rich and elegant materials, which by the eye and the hand of aste, make so fine a display, is an old friend of yours I find, and I learn too that his merit rests upon higher grounds, and such as to excuse any man for taking pride in his friendship.

Pauls Gossip.—Last week occurred the marries of a young girl of eighteen, of the prettiest figure is the world, an excellent education, much intelligence, and a proud name. She married the Count de P.—, a diplomatist, forty-five years of age, of much wit and large wealth, who had the good sense to perceive that marriage was not always a business transaction.

All the young female friends of Mile M—busied themselves much about her corbeille.
How wou'd the Count choose the thousand bagatelles necessary for a woman's tollette? The Count was watched. The secret police of the young ladies kept eye on his move-ments, they saw him enter no jeweler's, no showl merchant's, no dry goods stores, and that worried them. When they alluded to wedding presents, the Count seemed not to understand them. At last they began to suspect him of avarice, and pitied poor Mile. M—for making such a rourringe.

But on the day of the signing of the con-

But on the day of the signing of the contract, the Count arrived, carrying under his arm a small ebony hox, heautfully ornamented. He placed it on the lap of his betrothed, saying, "My dear Blanche, permit me to offer you what will serve as a corneil-le."

"So small a corbeille!" whi pered to each other the curious and discontented

"I do not give you," added the Count, "shawls or dresses which I should have badly selected."

"What does he give her, then, the miser !"

murmured the young girls. "A book in which to set down her expenses, no doubt." "A talisman, with which you shall have all you desire." A talisman! judge the effect produced by the word. The girls surrounded the blushing Blanche.

"Open it! let us see the talisman."

Trembling, Blanche opened the box. It contained a hundred notes of a thousand france, and placed upon them was a little Everybody was delighted. A hundred thousand francs I What generosity!

"Mad that you are," said the Count, "you are in ecclasies before these rags, and sny nothing about the talisman."

"How! by the talisman do you not mean the notes themselves?"

"Not at all. The notes are a cushion for the talisman. The talisman is the key." "This key? Is it a magic key." "No, it is simply the key of my money drawer."

This modest and unembarrassed liberalty produced a very great effect, and the future Countress is regarded as quite a happy woman .- Boston Gazette.

THIS Machine is in point of fact the only Washine is in point of fact the only Washine is in thoroughness and speed, it is very compact, light, simple in its construction, and requires but very little power for its operation. It washes the clothes with as little and even less wear than by hand. It will wash the finest lace collar or a heavy bed blanket without any change or different arrangement of the Machine. It washes every article separately and clean, consequently requirily no finishing on the common wash board, as is the case with all the other machiness.

board, as is the case with all the other machines.

In offering this machine for sale, we feel confident we are offering to humbug—nothing but what we know to be a poed and reliable Machine, and needs only to be used to be a preciated. We toake the statement strong, and, if need he, can bring forward hundreds who will endorse the statement. It is within the reach of every family, the price being only 56, and will pay for itself in a very short time. It is durable, and not limble to get out of order. It can be moved with as nuch case as a common wash tub.

THE LIVER

INVIGORATION.

PREPARED BY UR: SANFOUD.

Compounded Entirely from Grans.

To One of the best Purgative and Liver Medicines now before the public, they acts as a Culhartle, easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the stonach and bowles to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two parapores effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system as the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and hindle in with unusual rapidity.
